

Workforce Relationships Continue to Blossom

Workforce Development through our Los Angeles County America's Job Centers of California (AJCC) continues to develop and unfold with great success under the new Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA). As the Department of Community and Senior Services, in collaboration with their service partners, continues to invest in the local economy, providing success stories and successful relationships continue to grow. Companies such as Altech Services Inc and Midori Services Inc have been working closely with our South Valley AJCC operating in Palmdale.

Due to this growing relationship, Altech Services has experienced high quality and timely service provided by the South Valley AJCC. "We have found the South Valley AJCC to be a valuable tool to meet all of our personnel requirements," said Tom from Altech. Goodwill, who supports some of LA County's AJCCs, has also provided much support to Altech Services. This has opened up 70 positions in 2015-2016 for jobs such as material handlers, welders, wiring technicians, and many others. We are proud to have priority consideration and an accelerated hiring process from Altech Services through our AJCC trained and vetted applicants.

The relationship between the South Valley AJCC in Palmdale and Midori Services Inc. has continued to prove fruitful. Midori has stated that “we are always recruiting new employees...AJCC have given us multiple qualified candidates and current employees.” The effort put in by South Valley AJCC is such that Midori Services gives priority interviews and hires from them before resorting to other methods for seeking candidates.

This is an example of the quality of service of our providers and partners such as the City of Palmdale and Goodwill. We give a big thank you to Altech Services, Midori Services, and all the other businesses who work closely with Community and Senior Services, Goodwill, and our LA County AJCCs for their employment and service needs. We will continue to increase our efforts to provide quality service, quality candidates, and an experienced team to any and all businesses in LA County.
